New contract with RM Consult:

Norwegian Embassies gets tsunami warning

The Norwegian Royal Ministry of Affairs and company RM Consult has signed an agreement about supporting Norwegian Embassies with tsunami warning to dedicated mobile phones.

10 Embassies and General Consulates around Pacific and Indian Ocean are participating in 1-year trial testing this new warning system. The warnings are delivered as "Flash SMS" that overrides all other information in the mobile phone display. Under normal conditions new warnings shall arrive within 3 minutes.

These subscriptions will be part of the total safety management performed by the safety and crisis management department at their head office in Oslo.

The company A3M, which is located at Seychelles, has unveiled the system. From their offices in Germany, they are issuing warnings based on seismic data from the international tsunami alarm network. The alarm system does have a global coverage. 95% of the mobile phone networks worldwide are able to transfer such warning messages.

RM Consult is offering crisis management solutions in an international business market, including maritime and aviation market segments.

Mr. Roar Moe, managing director, says:

- These tsunami warning to mobile phone we will offer all over Scandinavia for consumers. This is a brand new service that will be useful for holiday tourist visiting Thailand resorts and other places in high-risk areas. This is a low-cost subscription because we want many travelers to use it.
